The Capttal Fraud. In yesterday morning's issue of the Register, in glaring capitals, are the words: "Important to Tax-payers—A Capital Without Cost." columns for a full report of the proceed-State of Ohio, which met in Cleveland

P. M., reported a platform and resolutions which take decided grounds on the monetary and labor qu stions. Hon. W. H. West was nominated for Governor.

WE may now undertake to count the cost of the five days strike which the New York Journal of Commerce estimates at $26,250,000. The five railroads concerned probably lost $40,000 each par day or altogether $200,000 daily; add $50,000 as a low calculation for losses by interruption of other roads, and the total is $250,000 per day, or $1,250,000 for the suspension. The losses sustained by the Pennsylvania road at Pittsburgh and on the line between that city and Harrisburg are calculated at $10,000,-000. Half of that amount would scarcely cover the cost of property destroyed on the Baltimore & Ohio, and it is likely that $10,000,000 would approximate the losses of railroad property other than those which have been enumerated. those which have been enumerated. This makes a total of $25,250,000. There are losses other than these which might be taken into account but which it would be difficult to estimate, such as the losses sustained by various branches of industry by the stopping of communication

THERE seems to be a growing opposition to the use of postal cards amo office officials, who think it the duty of government to see that the receipts of the postoffice department should exceed its expenditures. Postmaster James, of New York, is represented as saying that they are emphatically a nuisance and cause a falling off in the sale of ordinary postage stamps of $1,000 a day. And yet the cards cannot be regarded as a nuisance by the public, whose purchases in New York alone average 50,000 a day. The community regards the cards as a very great convenience, and, without reference to the effect of their use upon the revenues of the department, will not consent to their abolishment.

THE large coal companies found the late strike a very specious excuse for an advance in prices. The sale of 200,000 tons of coal was postponed in New York last week on account of the uncertainty of transportation. Four leading companies refused to sell at any price, and coal agents and dealers sold only to regular customers at advances of from 50 to 75 cents on prices ruling at the beginning of the strike. There was some fear that The Pennsylvania Road Passes speculators would get hold of the stock of Its Dividend. the companies, but the action of the leading corporations in refusing to sell probably prevented this. At any rate when order is restored there can be no excuse for high prices.

so-called State House at Charleston bears no more resemblance to the building out 1877, but had been in use in Europe for fifty years. I will explain the rope f upper or running mill-stone low down and in close proximity to the nether stone, by reason of which the largest amount of flour is derived from the first grinding, but, as necessarily must be the case, a ligreat deal of the outge-coating of the wheat, together with the embryo, would be reduced to such fineness as to go into the flour, and a separation was impossible. The high grinding is the direct opposite of the low, and the object is at the first grinding to get rid of the bran at once and make as little flour as possible. This is done by blowing the bran off the coarse-ground grain or middlings, and afterwards grinding flow the same off the granules. I bought my machines in

The charge is so frequently and fool ishly made that Delawareans syste ings of the Republican Convention of the cally underestimate the peach crop, tha to find an outsider misled into making as inderestimate in a Northern newspaper permanent chairman, a committee on Robinson, now of Florida, and the forme resolutions was appointed which, at 4 agricultural editor of the New York Tr onac, which, we are confident, represents the peach prospects to be worse than the facts justify. If any one has been crazy enough to estimate a crop of 15,000,000 baskets, then there is a tremendous falling off from his notion, but ever since the rst injury to the trees the estimate the number of baskets to be shipped b rail has been but 3,500,000 baskets, an our own advices gives us no reason t our own advices gives us no reason to suppose that these figures need alteration. The silly table giving an estimate by stations, to which Mr. Robinson relera, we have seen going the rounds, but do not know where it originated. Some Delaware and Maryland newspapers have been so stupid as to reprint it, though it estimated the number of baskets to be shipped from New Castle at 400,000, when practically no peaches whatever are shipped from there any year. The present crop is large enough and probably too large. One thing we do not quite understand, and that is why Solon Robinson should be growing about no resting son should be growling about not getting enough peaches to eat at Middletown, the most northerly peach station of any con-sequence, when the fruit has only fairly begun to ripen in the most southerly peach region. Still he is right in going to New York. It is always the place to get the best Delaware peaches and to ge them at the lowest price.

The following is the platform adopted by the Ohio State Republicans Convention:

The Republicans of Ohio, in convention assembled, congratulate the people that during the long term of their control of the affairs of the State, no stain has been found on their record as a party; that their management of the local affairs has been true to the moral and industrial interests of the people, and, therefore, they confidently point to their past history as the best evidence as to their intention for the future on National questions. The National Republicans claim the same fidelity to right principles and practices that they have exhibited in the local and State affairs. Appealing to the determination of the people to maintain Republican principles and practices, they offer for the candid consideration of the voters of Ohio the following platform of principles.

An Extraordinary Session of the English House of Commons.

English House of Commons.

London, August 1.—One of the most extraordinary sessions of the House of Commons is now in proceeding.

The House assembled at 4 P. M., yesterday, and before 6 o'clock had gone into the consideration of the South African Confederation Bill, to which there has been at warve these long and persistent.

Fresh relays came at 4 and 7, and officials and police were relieved at intervals during the night. The excitement is very general througout the house.

About noon the Obstructionists discontinued active opposition. At 2:10 the bill was completed in the committee amidst thunders of cheers, and was several times repeated. The scene throughout was animated and sometimes stormy. out was animated and sometimes stormy.
Within the recent history there has been no parallel to this sitting. The House of Commons sat 25 hours on the Slavery Emancipation Bill but not on account obstruction. The House then proceeded to take up other bills. A violent scene tollowed in the discussion of the Judicature Ireland Bill, caused by Parnell, the home rule member for Meath.

During last night's discussion, Sir Stafford Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared that the government intended to pass the bill if they had to sit through vacation.

Upon this, John O'Connor Power, a

Power tried to explain, but cries of "withdraw" drowned his voice, the finally withdrew the expression.

O'Donnell, recently elected for Dungate, having tried to justify the conduct of the obstructionists, Butt, liberal member for Limerick, declared that the Irish party repudiated O'Donnell, and asid if he thought O'Donnell did represent the Irish party (Butt) would retter from the Irish brawl.

Lusk, liberal member for Finsbury, said the proceedings cut at the foundation of constitutional government.

Just before noon Sir Stafford Northcote, having been advised by Edward Knatchbull Hugerson, Liberal member for Sandwich, to take a strong and swift action in the matter, thanked his supporters for the aid he had received, and made a final appeal to the minority to yield, and hoped that in the absence of the honorable gentleman whom he had expected to arrive shortly, he would persevere with a will.
O'Donneil affected to regard this as a threat of coercion, and said that under the altered circumstances he would retire

LONDON, August 1.—A note received by the Russian Secretary of State from the headquarters of Grand Duke Nicholas, where the Ctar is sojourning, as to the sinking of vessels at the mouth of the Danube, and the employment of Egyptian troops in the service of Turkey, says: "As soon as the war is ended Russia will remove the impediments and clear the bed of the river." As to the other point, the note says that to calm the anxiety of the British Cabnet, His Imperial Majesty has instructed the Russian ambassador at London to declare to Carl Derby that we harbor no project of aggression against Egypt. Might we not have expected therefore, in strict fairness, that the British government would use its influence with the Khedive to prevent him from engaging in direct hostilities against us. In our last fights in the Balkans our soldiers found themselves opposed by Egyptian troops, and it will perhaps suffice to point out this fact to justify the hope that if the British government desires its interests shall not be compromised by aggression on our part against Egypt, it will also use its influence there to prevent us from being forced by open hostilities of the vice regal government, to take steps to prevent a renewal of them.

Cassagnac to the Bonapartists. PARIS, August 1.—Cassagnac, replying o the letter of the Bonapartist Committee, refuses to acknowledge the Committee's authority, and says: If the Empire don't know how to subordinate itself to the needs of France and to contain itself and wait, it will never be restored.
